ISA RC28 Spring Meeting 2019
Frankfurt am Main, Germany, March 21-23

The International Sociological Association's Research Committee 28 invites all scholars working in the field of social stratification and social mobility to contribute to its next annual Spring Meeting. The 2019 meeting will take place at the Goethe University of Frankfurt, Germany, from March 21-23, 2019, and is hosted by the Chair for Social Stratification and Social Policy (Prof. Markus Gangl), the ERC-funded CORRODE project, and the Institute for Empirical-Analytical Research (InFER). The meeting will be held under the conference theme of

Long-term consequences of the Great Recession for stratification, mobility and inequality and paper or poster submissions that address this theme are especially encouraged. As the conference will feature regular sessions on all fields of stratification research (e.g. on intergenerational mobility, education, labor markets, gender, family, migration and ethnicity, economic inequality, poverty, life courses, health and well-being, political sociology, methodology), any contribution relevant to the broad research agenda of the RC28 on social stratification, mobility and inequality is welcome.

To submit your proposal, please visit the conference website at www.rc28-frankfurt.org. Please prepare an extended abstract (ca. 2-4 pages, 800-1000 words, potentially including tables or figures) or submit a full paper through the Conftool submission site. An extended abstract must be sufficiently detailed to allow the organizers to judge the merits of the paper, including a clear description of the research question, the theoretical framework, the data, research design and research methodology, as well as the main findings. Please also include up to 5 keywords and choose the preferred format (oral/poster) and conference stream for your contribution during the submission process.

The deadline for submission is October 31, 2018. All submissions are subject to peer review by the program committee. Authors will be informed about the committee decision by December 15, 2018.
